A parley with Security Agencies

At the Fund's Annual Staff Retreat in July, there was a session titled "A Parley with Heads of Security Agencies in Lagos State," which provided an opportunity for various security agencies in the state to present updates to the Executive Secretary/CEO and the management team regarding their activities. It also afforded them a platform to highlight areas where they required additional support.

During the retreat, security agencies intimated the Fund of their various equipment needs, including patrol vehicles, motorbikes, raincoats, boots, and other essential items required for effective security operations.

The Executive Secretary assured the security agencies of the Fund's continuous support while urging them to remain diligent and committed in carrying out their respective assignments in the state.
